By ROMNEY WHEELER,

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7.-Golf's greats got together here today for the Masters' golf tournament-and got a double helping of cheerful news to start them off. First was an announcement by Ed Dudley, head of the Professional Golfers' Association, that President Roosevelt had given golf a wartime go-ahead, along with baseball and other recreational pursuits. Second was an announcement by Dudley that the P. G. A.'s 2,300 members have pledged to raise $250,000 for wartime benefits and relief-five times the amount raised by golf in 1940 or 1941.

Sees Recreation as Help. Dudley made public a letter from Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, transmitting to him the President's opinion that within reasonable limits he believed the war effort would not be hampered but actually improved by sensible participation in healthful pursuits. The President said his comment applied to general recreation and amusement during the war effort. Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, said the association's golf stars would engage in as many benefit matches as possible for Red Cross and other war activities. To insure adequate amounts for charity, he said, prospective promoters will be required to guarantee at least $500 to the designated war agency before the P. G. A. will accept co-

F. B. I. agents testified in Federal District Court that Felton, dressed as a second lieutenant, walked into the Army post and was received as a genuine officer.

The fort public relations office said that knowledge of military life acquired during service in a Southern camp and the fact there are hundreds of colored officers at Fort Devens made it possible for the youth to evade detection.

Found asleep in an automobile in Cambridge a few nights ago, he was unable to show a draft card or other identification and was arrested. The F. B. I. checked up and took him to court.
